To Whom It May Concern,

It is my pleasure to recommend Antony William for any position or role that he may choose to pursue in the future. I have worked with Antony for the better part of two years, and I can truly say that I've never met a Tech Writer that is his equal.

Rather than simply writing documentation, Antony is deeply technical. He took the time to understand the product, and the quality of his written work excelled because of this knowledge. Also, as we adopted a docs-as-code strategy for all of our documentation, he led the charge in developing the frameworks, scripts, CI/CD pipelines, and processes that were used. As AI became more prominent in the industry, Antony's role changed from Tech Writer to a hybrid role as AI developer. He was charged with developing the groundwork to leverage generative AI in the production of documentation, and did so with resounding success. Antony's contributions were instrumental in the success of our projects, and the groundwork he has laid in our organization will persist for years to come.

I'm completely confident that Antony will be a valuable asset to any organization, and if our paths were to cross again in the future, I would hire Antony without a moment of hesitation.

Sincerely,

Kyle Fransham
